County left with missing Link

This view of a MetroLink train approaching the Eads Bridge in East St. Louis is as close as the light-rail system will get to Madison County for a long time, after voters soundly defeated Proposition M on Tuesday.

First election day went smoothly for Von Nida

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Tuesday's election was the first for Madison County Clerk Mark Von Nida, who said it "worked like a charm."

"There were no major problems and all the votes from 33,693 ballots had been tabulated by 10 p.m.," he said.

"I am really proud of my election judges," Von Nida said. "They handled some changes and in some cases terrific turnouts and still got everything turned in very early."

While the 22 percent was a little higher than the 20 percent he anticipated — and more than twice the 10 percent school board elections normally draw — Von Nida had higher hopes.

"That's good but not good enough. The bond issue and (Proposition M) really pushed the numbers up," he said. "A lot of people were representative of what the will of the people in Madison County."

Kicielinski said proponents would "absolutely" be back before voters at some time.

"It's too important not to be back in the future," he said. "We have to have MetroLink if we want the county to grow and increase its tax base."

"It's good for the environment. It's good for many pluses. We just can't let it go," he said. "I guarantee it will be back on the ballot again."

Madison County Transit District Manager Jerry Kane spent most of Tuesday evening at the Madison County courthouse watching results come in.

Results were negative from the start, and at one time ran more than 2 to 1 against the measure.

"It looks like Proposition M is going down, not just here in Madison County, but from what I've heard in Missouri as well," Kane said.

A similar increase was voted down in St. Louis County. While St. Louis City voters narrowly approved the tax, approval in both city and county was necessary for the Missouri increase to be approved.

Kane said negative publicity about

Voters soundly reject sales tax

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

While voters overwhelmingly shot down a sales tax increase to finance an extension of MetroLink into Madison County, some supporters said it would "absolutely" be back before voters at some time.

Proposition M would have increased the sales tax by a half-cent in 16 Madison County townships. The tax would have brought in an estimated $278 million by 2015, which would have funded either an 8- or 16-mile MetroLink extension, depending on whether federal matching funds were available.

In unofficial results, 20,169 voted against the proposal, while 12,564 voted for it.

"We've lost, that's about as bad as it can look," said Tadas Kicielinski, executive secretary/treasurer of the Southwestern Illinois Building and Construction Trades Council and co-chairman of Madison County Citizens for Proposition M.

"We're very disappointed; we had a lot of good folks, a lot of good people that worked hard on it trying to get people to the polls," he said. "Not enough people went to the polls and that's why we lost."

He said in the "off" election years, "people don't go and it's not really interesting in voting on those."

Tuesday marked the last time, however, that school board elections will be held in November. Starting in April 1999, those and community-wide elections will be held in conjunction with regular municipal elections. Von Nida said he initially opposed the Illinois State Board of Education change.

"People get used to voting twice a year and I think it's a good thing to keep them in a

Ortbls presents plan to double size of tax district

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

An expansion of the city of Madison's tax increment financing district will allow the city to take advantage of development spurred by Gateway International Raceway.

At Tuesday's meeting the City Council approved a resolution to set a hearing at 1 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 23, at the Madison City Hall.

Alan Ortbls, executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority, gave city officials a rough draft of the expanded TIF district redevelopment plan.

MADISON

If approved by the council, the expansion will almost double the TIF district.

The original TIF was 615 acres, Ortbls said. "This expansion is 547 (acres), mostly to the north along Bend Road and Illinois 203."

In a short presentation to the council, he said the expanded

TIF will allow the city to take part in development going on in other communities.

He said much of the development was caused by the success of Gateway International Raceway.

"The creation of that TIF and the use of tax increment was just essential to making that racetrack happen," Ortbls said. "This kind of an unusual situation in that the racetrack was financed through revenue bonds, and a

City attorney steps down

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Citing his remaining city attorney far longer than he planned, Leo Konzen resigned from his post on Tuesday.

Konzen had served as city attorney for four and a half years.

Mayor Ron Selph had appointed Konzen, who really intended to stay in this job at all, but he joked that Selph "twisted my arm" and the third time it hurt.

He had been slated to resign at Tuesday's regular city council meeting. Afterwards, the council passed a resolution to prepare a plaque honoring Konzen for his service.

GRANITE CITY

The attorney formally stepped down to a heartfelt round of applause from council members, city officials and residents.

Immediately following, Selph announced Keith Jensen as the new city attorney, which the council approved.

In his letter, Konzen said he only intended to stay on a short time, given his private practice demands his full attention.

"I have found the city council to be a most conscientious group of public servants. Working with these dedicated members of the city council, and other elected city officials, have made it a pleasure to deal with the city's problems," Konzen wrote.

"Secondly, I have developed a deep respect for Mayor Ron Selph for all of his efforts to improve the quality of life in our city. I am privileged to observe his decisions and know that his judgments

NAACP decries hiring

By Terry Hillig
Telegraph staff writer

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine's rehiring of Don Weber shows Haine is insensitive to concerns of the black community, says James Gray, president of the NAACP Alton Branch.

Weber, an experienced prosecutor of high-profile criminal cases, resigned as an associate state's attorney in 1990 under a barrage of criticism for remarks that some black leaders believed were racist.

Haine rehired Weber this week to prosecute violent crime cases. Haine said he needed Weber's skill and experience to help fill the void left by the recent death of veteran prosecutor Robert Trone.

Haine rehires Weber

Don Weber, one of the most controversial figures in Madison County politics and law enforcement in recent decades, has returned to the State's Attorney's Office.

State's Attorney William Haine said Weber began work Monday in a part-time position prosecuting violent crime cases.

Weber resigned in 1990 under a hail of criticism over what leaders in the black community and some Democratic Party leaders thought were racist remarks.

He has since been rehired by Haine, who has prosecuted numerous high-profile criminal cases, provides extra experience and talent needed on his team after the death or long-time prosecutor Robert Trone and the departure of other veteran prosecutors in recent years.

Cancer benefits are Saturday

The community will open its heart — and pocketbooks — this weekend for two area residents suffering from cancer. Kendra Dawn Hartley, 7, will receive hot help Saturday in her fight against cancer.

Friends and family are holding a benefit chili cookoff starting at 4 p.m. Saturday at Sammy's, 92 Niedringhaus in Granite City. The fee is $10, payable at the bar. Donations will also be accepted at Sammy's. Food, raffles and prizes are planned.

For more information on the chili cookoff, call 876-0821. Also Saturday is a dinner and dance benefit to help pay the cancer bills of Vietnam veteran William Moreland. The event begins at 6 p.m. at the American Legion Post #113, 1825 State St. in Granite City.

Donations will be accepted at the door. Crafts will be auctioned and $500 tickets for a Dec. 13 drawing are $2.

Anyone wishing to make a donation should call 876-2902 or made directly to Central Bank to the American Legion, in care of Bill Moreland.

Grants augment departments

Federal money has been released to the Granite City and Madison.

Granite City has received a $150,000 Community Oriented Policing Services grant to hire two officers currently training at Belleville Area College.

Madison and Granite City also have received block grants to purchase more equipment and personnel. Madison's grant is $13,153 and Granite City's is $15,922.

Granite City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen said that the money will go towards purchasing portable radios, and possibly a mobile machine for the dispatcher's department and an identification machine.

Meeting spotlights positives

Developers and civic officials are taking a hard look at the potential of the St. Louis National Stockyards property in National City.

In late October, about 35 people — ranging from developers, local municipal officials, development agency and state agency representatives — met to discuss future development at the stockyards.

"It's a great opportunity," he said. "It's a unique opportunity."

On the negative side, he said there's "a stigma" in the minds of many Missouri residents about Illinois. People from the west side don't recognize anything east of the Mississippi, he said, and it is something that will have to be overcome."

Oregon vote should be choice decision

By the time this column runs, we all should know the results of Tuesday's election. We will know the victors in the Edwardsville school board race and if those of us who live in Madison County's 16 highest populated townships are willing to fork out an additional half-cent per dollar on sales taxes to help fund the rail system in the approaching 21st century. MetroLink service will be extended into at least a portion of that county.

Naturally, I'm interested in the outcome of both, but I'll be equally anxious to learn the outcome of a referendum in progress two-thirds of a century away.

That vote is the question of repeal of the Oregon law, approved in 1994 as Ballot 16, which allows for physician-assisted suicide of terminally ill through use of life-ending drugs requested by the mentally competent patient.

The Oregon law, which has yet to be officially tested because of contested suits in various courts, is now up for grabs.

Of course, I'm interested. According to reports of the existing state law, repeal is a sure thing; predictions are 2-to-1. Today we'll find out how accurate those numbers are.

Considering the decision this past summer by the U.S. Supreme Court that the right to physician-assisted death was no a Constitutional right, these people think this a prime example of buck-passing.

I don't think so.

While that court upheld laws of New York and Washington states in banning such assistance, it also rejected an attempt to challenge the Oregon law thus allowing that elected voters to make their own decision.

The question of how much control we will have over our own manner of death, whether it's through physician's hands or the laps of the various state legislatures and their individual electorates.

The Oregon referendum figures that we can expect today may change a number of choices some Americans will be making, including making Portland a more satisfactory Mecca than Michigan has been for some time.

Carol

the last category has suggested some safeguards against abuse — should such assistance become legal — that make good sense.

These include such specifics as a 48-hour waiting period, a patient consent form signed in the presence of witnesses, confirmation that the patient is mentally competent, terminally ill with an expected life of six months (as well as confirming second medical opinions) and that the person has had the opportunity of pain-free palliative care and relief from pain and the decision to die has been made freely and without any form of coercion.

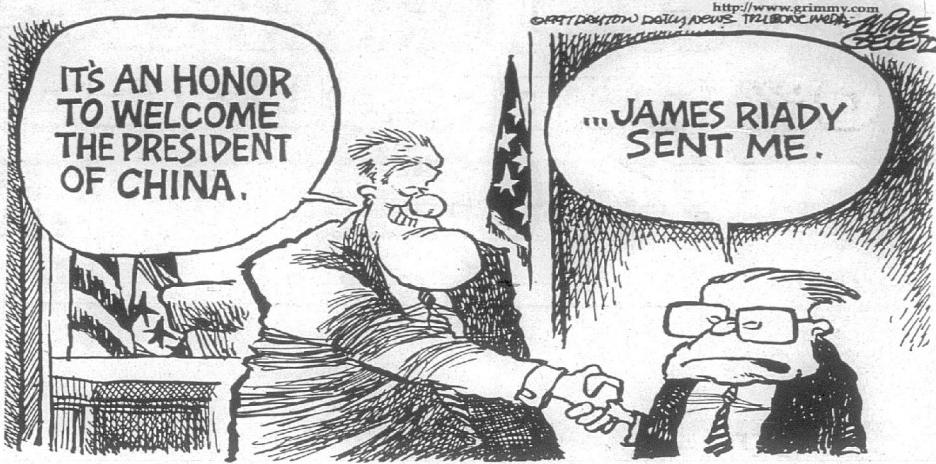

Truthfully, I'm not sure for the present, I have to confess to a bit of ambivalence in the matter. My quality of life is still comparatively good, I still feel good about my wife, my purpose, and I think all things being equal, my health is moderately good, all of which could come to a quickened change.

I've seen people prepared for die, some peacefully and in no great pain and some the heartrending reverse.

Inevitably, to rational people, this is a general question beyond question. It's not a question of when, it's how and under what conditions. Not a decision I'd want to make for others, but I'd care for strangers to make for me if it takes a law to assure that choice them and to me, so it be.

Irrespective we never one of my life's goals, and I doubt that will change at any late date.

The Oregon referendum figures that we can expect today may change a number of choices some Americans will be making, including making Portland a more satisfactory Mecca than Michigan has been for some time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Constitution is backbone

TO THE EDITOR:

Of all the dates in American History, one of the most important is perhaps the least well-known, Sept. 17, 1787. On that day, our Nation's Founders signed the Constitution of the United States, a document that has steadily grown in stature throughout the world as a model for democratic government under the rule of the law.

Every American citizen has a right to form an opinion of the Constitution and to propagate that opinion as prevailing one.

For too long, instruction in our schools has focused on the Constitution as a long ago event rather than as the nation's enduring charter. The liberties afforded us for more than 200 years could be undermined if they are too little appreciated and safeguarded. We must do so by mere reason of loyalty, extolling the virtues of the Constitution and praising the superiority of The American Way of Life.

This is not to say that the Constitution is perfect as it is written and requires no fine-tuning. However, Congress, state legislatures and Americans in general should insist that any modifications of this extraordinary document should meet extraordinary standards.

More often than not, proposed amendments are nothing more than political rhetoric or a smoke screen for politicians who would rather preen about a balanced budget, taxes, health care, crime and campaign reform without any viable plan or serious intention to produce solutions the hard way, by making tough decisions and realistic choices.

Too often, they bow down to the wishes of special interest groups and lobbyists, not willing to risk their own re-election's to deliver what is best for America, thus jeopardizing future generations of what we have enjoyed, of living as a free people in a free society.

President Kennedy's famous quote "ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country" are words which still echo a challenge to each of us today. If we unite as ambassadors for a common cause we can preserve and secure the past, present, and future of America.

Kittens defy act

TO THE EDITOR:
This letter is to the unknown "cretin" who left three tiny three-week-old kittens in a trashcan to die of suffocation on the evening of Oct. 8.

Your day of judgment will come, and your life will be haunted by your terrible act. In the 16 years I have been involved in animal rescue, I have seen every type of cruelty imaginable.

This case makes me so angry because it was so unnecessary. Shame on your cowardly soul — you didn't give them to any one of several humane societies in the area.

"So? They are just cats," you may say, but all life is of value. Sorry to disappoint you, but two of the three survived you know at the time of rescue. They are being bottle fed by ARK volunteers and in foster care. The attending veterinarians say they have a chance to make it.

When the kittens are healthy and eight weeks old, they will be ready for adoption. ## Paper falls short

TO THE EDITOR:
In the Oct. 18 Journal, the story about the former owner, editor and publisher of the Granite City Press Record included a quote about his paper's philosophy. The quote was "The newspaper does not have to be neutral to be fair; and that it can and should take sides editorially when an important public issue is at stake."

I truly believe that C.E. "Corky" Townsend — as a dedicated newsman — would recognize the validity of Mitchell's right to vote in the current incorporation controversy.

If Mr. Townsend's standards were as praiseworthy as presented, he'd probably certainly allow his reporters to report the issues on incorporation fairly and accurately.

I do not believe the Press Record nor the Journal have maintained the standards of Mr. Townsend; they have succumbed to the pressures set forth by the self-serving political interests of areas surrounding Mitchell.

Grateful

I would like to express my gratitude to Mr. Welch for the many years of community service that he has given, serving on the Unit 10 school board. I regret that he chose not to run again. He's been a member on the board who was always accepting of phone calls and encouraged you to call. Mr. Welch not being on the board is a loss to the community. Mr. Welch, enjoy your free time. You deserve it.

Fallen asleep?

In regards to the paper with the Sound Off! Wake Up Granite City! Granite City will never wake up. I have called, and asked someone to have the alleys cleaned and they never have. All summer long we're needed to be cleaned, especially behind Nameoki Road in the 3400 block. And as far as Kirkpatrick Homes, money coming in to repair Kirkpatrick's roads shouldn't be done.

Hand in hand

It has been my experience in my 65 years that politics and money are nearly one and the same. I don't know who of the Mitchell group stands to make money from this movement. I can be sure that somebody will. And who will end up paying? If it ends up happening, I will end up paying my share because I'm in that area. My neighbors and I are happy just as we are. We're not Mitchell and we are not Granite City. We chose to live here. It's sad that there's someone starting something to stir up our lives. So, while we are fortunate to be able to choose where we want to live, it's too bad that a so-called majority can take that away.

Demise of democracy

The demise of our democracy is quite evident in many events, such as the Roby standoff, the political maneuvering of Elmer Kirchoff as Belleville Area College president, and the coverup for the Maryville chief of police, Don Sonnenberg, after leaving the scene of an accident. The Illinois State Police Director Terry and Gailen should be fired for torturing a 51-year-old lady. In addition, Gov. Edgar should be impeached for engineering an action. The St. Clair and Madison political machines are taken off of what has happened in the past. It could be compared to what happened in communist Russia and what is happening in China today. Thank you.

To call the Journal "Sound Off" line, dial 277-9522 and leave your message. We won't print personal attacks or unfair criticism of individuals or businesses. Please keep your comments brief and reasonable.

Not one of 'we'

TO THE EDITOR:
The handwriting of what immigration will do to our country is not officially on the wall.

Before the arrival of journalists in June, President Clinton proclaimed that America can "live without in effect having a dominant European culture." He added that we want to become a multi-racial, multi-ethnic society.

And just who is this royal "we," the president proclaims? It includes the vast majority of Americans who don't want their country following in the footsteps of multi-ethnic Bosnia. We are a multi-racial country. If our dominant culture withers away, assimilation and unity are impossible.

The sad truth is some Americans really don't care for freedom and equality for all fellow citizens. They are President Clinton's royal "We." Many are members of his party who favor Big Government. Massive Third World immigration provides them a diverse fragmented population; one use to taking orders. Ignorant of American principles and congenial to big government.

On the Republican side are big business interests who yearn for a more docile workforce which will not demand decent wages and working conditions. Mass immigration also serves their goal of a borderless world and a free hand in international profiteering.

Yes indeed, the message on the wall is there for all to see. Our way of life and freedoms in particular are at stake. Do we Americans dare to read it? Do we dare to act on it? Our daring will determine whether our nation lives or dies.

The students of Larry Wessels' technology class at Grigsby Middle School cluster around the BD-5 experimental airplane he brought in to demonstrate the principles of aerodynamics and aircraft technology. The plane was designed by Jim Bede as a kit in the early 1960s. Wessels purchased the kit for $1,600 in 1969, but after he entered the military, most of the work was completed by his father. The airplane was stored intact until last summer, when Wessels finished assembling it to use as a teaching aid.

Bringing technology into (or out of) the classroom

John Frese*

Justin Somers tries out the seat of teacher Larry Wessels' BD-5 airplane. The plane was designed to be small and light for performance, and the cockpit is a tight squeeze.

Tom Rowane and Mike Hill sand the edges of the wing sections of the model planes made from styrofoam into airfoil shapes.

Jessica Sprague and Amanda Krug work on their model planes, which they were building as part of a unit on the principles of flight in their technology class at Grigsby Middle School.

Rebekah Guffey cuts a section of fuselage for her model plane while classmate Liz Dochwat waits her turn. The students were encouraged to apply what they learned in Wessels' demonstration to the model airplanes they built.

Sometimes individuals contact this office and indicate that they fell on a slippery floor at a business establishment. People who have been injured in a fashionbridge whether they can recover damages from the store owner based on negligence.

Various Illinois cases have decided that the mere waxing or oiling of a floor does not necessarily constitute negligence on the part of the business owner in order to establish negligence, the evidence will have to show that the waxing or oiling of floors by business establishments, have decided that a store owner may treat a floor with wax or oil in the ordinary manner without incurring liability, unless he is shown to be negligent in the materials he used or the manner of applying the substance.

What this means is that testimony that a floor is slick, slippery, or polished is insufficient. In and of itself to establish negligence. A recent case involved an individual who fell at a race track and injured his back. Apparently, he slipped on a sheet of ice and fell.

What this means is that a floor is slippery, or polished is insufficient. In and of itself to establish negligence. A recent case involved an individual who fell at a race track and injured his back. Apparently, he slipped on a sheet of ice and fell.

Lady Warriors' postseason ride ends

Granite City falls to Bulldogs in semifinal match

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

It was a fun ride while it lasted, but it didn't last long enough.

The Granite City High School Lady Warriors' late-season run came to an abrupt halt Tuesday night in the semifinal round of the Collinsville Class AA volleyball sectional. Highland scored an impressive 15-5, 15-10 successive sets victory and moved into tonight's finale against powerful Belleville East.

East survived a mild scare against underhanded East St. Louis Lincoln, struggling to a 14-16, 16-14 decision in the evening's second contest.

Granite (11-20) could not seem to win a match early in the year, but became a serious factor on the stretch, placing third in the Southwestern Conference Tournament and spilling a pair of heavy favorites in regional play. But the Bulldogs (25-9), who had thumped the Lady Warriors twice on the year, including a game in the Freebird Tournament, were on their game again Tuesday, and Granite was in trouble early.

"Sometimes it's hard to beat a team three times in one year, especially a pesky team like Granite City," said Bulldog coach Todd Riedy.

Junior setter Danielle Koisher staked Highland to a 2-0 lead on a pair of hot serves to start the opening match. The Lady Warriors countered with a side-out on a service Wallace kill, followed by a hard Wallace serve, and the score was 2-1. But when the Bulldogs' Jamie May responded with four straight powerful serves, including a spectacular ace, Highland had a 6-1 lead and would never be headed.

The advantage ballooned to 10-2 before the Lady Warriors worked their way to three straight points. But it was a fast finish. Highland ran off the last three points on strong serves by Jennifer Trame and captured the 15-5 victory.

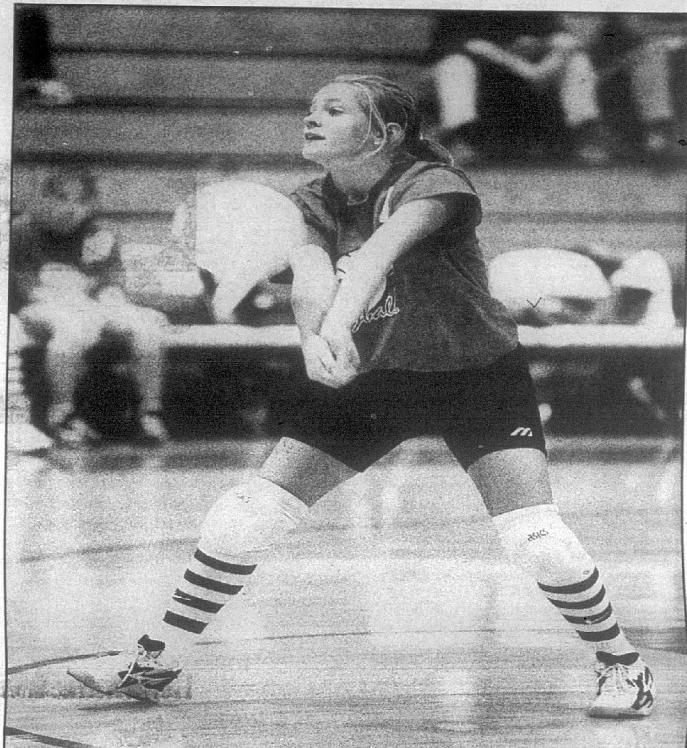

Granite opened fast in the second game, streaking to a sudden 10 lead set by Leah Gamblin and punctuated with two kills and a block by Jenna Wright.

But behind the superb play of Trame and Jill Johnson, and the powerful serves of Trame and May, Highland rolled past the Lady Warriors and into a 12-5 lead. The margin was 12-5 before Granite rode a trio of Laurie Bohmstie kills back into the game, pulling within 12-10.

Trame got more, May came up big on serves sealing the Bulldogs' victory with three straight scores.

"I thought coming into tonight's match we were very well with Highland," said senior Granite City coach Beth Seel. "I still think we match up very well — athletically and in terms of skill. But we just weren't on our game tonight."

"Our record doesn't indicate it, but I believe we have had a successful year," she added. "We came in at the end of the year. We finished third in the conference tournament. We won the regional. We fought hard tonight. We were weren't perfect. I am very proud of these girls."

Lancers squeak by Lincoln

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

It looked routine. Belleville East's powerful Lancers (28-7), the premier girls Class AA volleyball team in southern Illinois, was set to biff Lincoln by yet another post-season opponent, the 9-7 Tigresses of East St. Louis.

But, as the match played out on Tuesday evening at Fletcher Gym in Collinsville, it was anything but routine.

After jumping to leads of 6-0 and 11-3 in the first game, the Lancers had to fight for their lives against a quick and talented Lincoln team to pull out a 15-12, 16-14 victory and snuff out the dream of an upset that was growing more poignant by the minute.

"That was our brush with death," said a relieved Lancer coach Becky McGarry. "(Lincoln) played very well. They put down some big hits and they blocked very well."

Just how hard Lincoln pushed was seen in the weeping figures of Tigresses who lined the team bench following the loss.

"We had our chances tonight, but we just didn't do the little things that teams with the experience — teams like Belleville East — do," said Lincoln coach Hubert Butler. "That's the difference between us and them. We're in a season, like we did because of the teachers strike, and playing 36 or 37 games like Belleville East has."

Lincoln ended its season at 9-8.

The Lancers improved to 29-7 and will meet Highland (25-9) in the sectional championship game at 7 p.m. tonight at Collinsville.

Hightower will be featured at Park District banquet

By Patrick C. Heston

The Granite City Park District's annual Sports Award Banquet will be Tuesday, Nov. 18, 6:15 p.m. at the Nelson Harvey Auditorium Hall, located at 2060 Delmar Avenue in Granite City.

Tickets are $6 per person and must be purchased in person at the Park District's office, 2906 Bent Street.

The featured speaker for the evening will be Mr. Ed Hightower, a nationally known and well-respected NCAA Division I basketball official and superintendent of the Edwardsville School District.

Mr. Hightower officiated seven consecutive NCAA Final Four tournaments from 1983-94. He returned to the Final Four in 1996. Offered a contract to referee professional basketball for the National Basketball Association, he declined, preferring the contract he already has: educator and school administrator.

While Mr. Hightower is among the top college basketball referees in the country, his officiating pursuits take a back seat to his job as Superintendent of Edwardsville Community Unit District 7, where he is, by his own admission, absolutely committed to the students and teachers.

His civic recognition includes the 1990 Elijah Lovejoy Human Rights Award, the Illinois Jaycees Ten Outstanding Young Persons Award, the Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville Distinguished Alumnus Award, 1993 Bellefonte News-Democrat Carol Kimmel Community Service Award, and the 1994 Alton Boys and Girls Club Outstanding Citizen Award.

Hightower began officiating intramural basketball at SIUE during his junior year in college. Presently, he officiates NCAA Division I basketball in the Big Ten, Big Eight, Great

SIUE to host busy weekend of soccer

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

Soccer, soccer and more soccer.

That's in a sentence, is the gist of this weekend's soccer extravaganza at Bob Guelker Field on the campus of Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

With Sunday's win over Lewis University, the SIUE Cougars clinched the Great Lakes Valley Conference title and will it, the right to host the GLVC tournament.

But the conference must share the field with eight high school teams, playing the same weekend for the IHSA Class A boys soccer championship.

As a result, four college teams will join eight high school teams, playing 11 games in only 48 hours from Friday through Sunday. It is a soccer lover's dream come true.

The Class A quarterfinals feature Friday games at 12:30, 2:30, 5:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Carbondale, which knocked off Triad and Waterloo, is the closest to an area team in the IHSA finals, and will meet Springfield in the second game on Friday.

Prep league rolls into second season with more teams

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

The Southern Illinois High School Bowling Conference, which made its debut last year, is back for a second season with eight new schools joining the original 10.

"We have six new schools from Madison County, plus Columbia and Gibault from Monroe County," said Jim Imes, SIHSHC commissioner and youth director at St. Clair Bowl in Fairview Heights. "We were hoping to double in size, but I feel pretty happy we're at 16."

"I sent a fax (with the updated list of teams) to the Illinois High School Association and they sent back a letter stating that because of the growth of our program, they had to create two new sections. O'Fallon will host one of them here at St. Clair Bowl." It will be the second year to send four teams to state."

The league offers varsity and junior varsity competition for boys and girls teams. The six new teams from Madison County are in the North Division, while Columbia and Gibault will join the West Division.

"We had six new centers come on line this year to host schools," Imes said. "They're excited about the program and looking forward to it. Tryouts start Nov. 10 and the first match is Nov. 25."

"There are more centers out there who want to host schools. Wood River Bowl would like to have Roxana on (West). We'd like to have Wood River and Airport Bowl in Roxana would like to have (Bethalto) Civic Memorial."

The first year of the SIHSHC was a major success, as every participating school had a good turnout and everyone's girls teams performed well in the postseason. (The IHSA doesn't offer a state tournament series for boys.)

Southern Illinois High School Bowling Conference

This year's teams, listed by division and home center, are:

East Division
Belleville East (Panorama Lanes, Belleville)
Freeburg (Freeburg Lanes)
O'Fallon (O'Fallon Lanes)
Wescind (New Baden Bowl)
Mascoutah (Community Lanes, Mascoutah)
O'Fallon (St. Clair Bowl)

West Division

Belleville West (Bel-Air Bowl, Belleville)
Marissa (Freeburg Lanes)
Columbia (West Park Bowl, Columbia)
Gibault (West Park Bowl, Columbia)
Althoff (Bel-Air Bowl)
Canohka (Village Bowl, Calhoun)

North Division

Edwardsburg (Montcalre Bowl, Edwardsburg)

Metro East Lutheran (Cottonwood Bowl, Edwardsville)

Southwestern (Bowl Haven, Alton)

Worce (Bowling, Granite City)

Collinsville (Camelot Bowl, Collinsville)

Alton (Bowl Haven)

we may have to move it to the Gateway Center in Collinsville.

"Our format will be the same as last year. Every team will play all teams in their division twice and play one team in each other division, for a total of 12 matches."

"The Southwestern Conference plans on having a tournament division, but we've got so many of its teams (Belleville East, Belleville West, Edwardsville, Collinsville and Alton) are participating. Grand Island and East St. Louis are the only ones (SWC teams) on line this year. Granite City was interested, but they got started too late to get school board approval, so we hope they'll join next year. Bowland has already confirmed they could host two schools."

Imes was equally pleased by fan interest in the league.

"Last year we had a team for our banquet and we had about 100 people show up at St. Clair Bowl. With the number of people who will attend the banquet this year,

Weber was master of ceremonies for our banquet and we had about 150 people show up at St. Clair Bowl. With the number of people who will attend the banquet this year,

"Last year I tried to get information out to junior highs to let them know bowling is an option (for high school sports). We have a lot of junior bowlers and we're trying to develop our YBA (Youth Bowling Association) program and I'm trying to keep them interested."

The top 10 bowlers last year earned $1,000 in college scholarship money.

"The Metro East Men's 700 Club donated $4,000 for scholarships and they hope to donate at least that much this year," Imes said. "High school administrators — especially the coaches and athletic directors — (league sponsor) Pepsi, and the bowling center proprietors have really made this a smooth-running operation."

High school students seeking more information about the SIHSHC can call their local bowling center or call Imes at St. Clair Bowl (632-2400). The league also seeks local business sponsors; call Imes for more information on that as well.

SPORTS

Soccer playoffs have been highlight in best time of year for sports fans

As far as I'm concerned, there is no better time for a sports fan than in October. Especially if you're a high school sports fan.

There are the football playoffs. State tournaments in boys' and girls' basketball, boys' golf, and, of course, boys' soccer. Now that the state has gone to a two-class system in soccer, the boys' soccer playoffs are double the trouble.

The highly competitive area soccer didn't let us down in the first year of the two boys tournaments. Belleville East (Class AA) and Triad (Class A) came in as the standard-bearers heading into the playoffs. However, neither made it out of the sectional round. For Edwardsville, which got beat in the semifinals in a penalty-kick shootout against Granite City. Edwardsville, also a penalty-kick semifinalist who were beaten by Triad, knocked off Granite City in the Collinsville Sectional championship contest. To show how crazy things went, Collinsville beat Triad No. 7, but easily beat second-seeded O'Fallon in quarterfinal play.

Edwardsville, the third seed, earned a second trip to the state finals in the last three years by beating Bloomington 3-1 in Tuesday's Blomington Supersectional. In the first 25 years of the state boys' soccer tournament, only Edwardsville and Alton — once each — have represented this area at the state finals other than teams from Granite City or Collinsville. Granite City (South) has 10 state championships to its credit and Collinsville four.

Now, it appears Edwardsville may be the new kid on the state tournament block. The Tigers have some good players coming up, particularly their freshman class, which forms the nucleus for last year's under-14 VISA State Cup championship team. A lot of the Edwardsville players have been receiving good off-season training from the Edwardsville-based Metro Club, and Tigers head coach Mark Schwarzkopf has molded the team into one that is tactically sound squads in the state. What kept Edwardsville out of the state finals in years past was athleticism. Now, the Tigers have the athletes to go along with their tactically sound and technically sound players to move to the head of the class.

A good example of Edwardsville's athleticism coming into play was in the Super-Sectional win against Bloomington when Chris LaRose (two goals) and Kyle Kuehne (one goal) each figured into all of the scoring. Both players are more suitable for the football field than the soccer field. Edwardsville's P.J. Kuehne got a big kick introducing the players at home matches, making it sound more like a WWF event than a high school soccer match.

In short, Edwardsville now has the horses, and Schwarzkopf is pulling the right reins to get them to the finish line. *** ***

Springfield High, a perennial sacrificial lamb for the teams in this area for the Super-Sectional title in the old one-class days, finally will get its day at the state finals. The Senators, one of the larger Class A schools in the state, beat Chatham Glenwood 3-0 to advance to the Class A state final, which will be played Friday and Saturday at SIU-Edwardsville.

Carbondale made Triad look good by winning Waterloo 5-1 in the Columbia Super-Sectional. The Terriers knocked off Triad 3-2 to win the Triad Sectional. Once the sectional system was announced, Carbondale, needed second in last year's one-class area sectional, was immediately claimed as a state contender. The Knights return the nucleus of their team, so 1998 may be their year — providing their enthusiasm isn't too great to push them into the Class AA tournament, which presumably has stiffed competition.

Carbondale is certainly a worthy representative for this area at the first Class AA state finals. The Terriers won the Waterloo Tournament, sort of a prelude to the playoffs. Last year's coach, Michael Frazee, a law student, has molded the squad into a team. Carbondale, while possessing a lot of talent in the past, oftentimes did not play together. Frazee has showed them the benefits of teamwork, blending the players' individual skills into a team concept.

Ed Hightower is, as he prefers to phrase it, "a life toucher."

'Gattaca' rises above standard sci-fi ware

Heroes without flaws grow boring quickly. As if we didn't know! The flaw makes us truly human. That is the theme of "Gattaca," the tale of a near future in which gene sequencing has brought us toward perfection—and "invalids" have become the untouchables, the unirable and the discards of a corporate master-race society.

Few science-fiction films cross into the realm of relevance in filmmaking; it's no wonder they are rarely taken seriously by the cinema establishment. But "Gattaca" is different, and far above—stylized, subtle and full of elegiac beauty in a way most futuristic sci-fi promises but rarely deliver.

Vincent (Ethan Hawke) is one of the invalids—a "God child," conceived from love in the back seat of a car instead of the infirmary of a genetic laboratory. His test tube was flawed and, far above, his punctuation. His parents love him but agonize at his limitations—and the 99 percent chance of his heart failing. So they go the "proper" route to conceive his brother, Anton.

With the help of the black market, he finds a genetic doppelganger—Jerome Morrow (Jude Law), bred for perfection but left embittered and in a wheelchair. He and Anton, to say more would give away too much, but this is clear: Every corner, every nuance of this film is filled with subtle understandings that keeps delivering an underlying message that drive and individuality cannot be scientifically engineered—that, ultimately, humanity cannot be quantified.

The movie shines brightest in scenes between Vincent and Jerome, literal blood brothers who share a closeness and an intertwining of fates beyond true siblings.

"Gattaca" is that rare combination of science fiction and drama, a film built to serve and determine. The film is directed and scripted by Niccol and produced by Danny DeVito, Michael Shamberg and Stanley Sher.

'Red Corner' hits hard

Jack Moore should have known he was headed for trouble when he gazed out the window of the Chinese embassy's Tiananmen Square and noticed that he was being photographed by a TV surveillance camera.

Moore (Richard Gere), a high-powered lawyer, has come to Beijing to negotiate a satellite communications contract with the Chinese.

On the first night out, he meets a Chinese model in a night club. They return to his hotel room for a night of passion.

In the early morning, Moore is dragged from his bed by the police.

He is covered with blood, and the model has been stabbed to death. Moore is kidnapped and held in hell by the Chinese legal system.

Thus begins "Red Corner," part prison movie, part murder mystery, which is greatly enhanced by its reproduction of Beijing today.

It is a film so critical of the Chinese that it could not be shot in China.

But director Jon Avnet was able to bootleg a week's filming amid Beijing landmarks, even a set of lead actress Bai Ling bicycling along Tiananmen Square. The rest of the exteriors were filmed in Los Angeles on sets convincingly designed by Richard Sylbert.

Given the subject, the film is heartfelt and absorbing, his best performance in years.

Bai Ling, stage and film actress in China who has been working in the United States, matches Gere in sincerity. She is both stunning and intelligent.

"Red Corner" is an MGM production. Directed by Jon Avnet, Kerner, Charles B. Mulholland and Rosalie Swalin. Running time: 119 minutes.
